BURNING

In the world of cryptocurrency, “burning” a token means to purposefully take that token out of circulations , often by sending it to a cryptocurrency wallet to which no-one has access.

Burning large amounts of cryptocurrency tokens can have the effect of increasing the scarcity of that token .

The practice of coin burning is common in the crypto industry and is quite simple to implement .

Many projects use coin burning to preserve their assets supply and demand ratio.

Reducing the total volume of coins,theoretically,leads to their value increase,provided that current demand indicators are maintained.

Token burning is usually performed by the development team behind a particular cryptocurrency asset. It can be done in several ways,most balance is publicly visible on the blockchain,but access to its contents is unavailable to anyone.

MDOG Token burn is 50% and will be done in three steps :

Step 1 : 20%
